Russian opts not to build mansion in Greenwich

ASSOCIATED PRESS
GREENWICH — The wife of one of Russia's richest men says she will not build a massive mansion in Greenwich despite getting zoning approval.

Olga Kogan has sent a letter to town officials saying she's surprised by the level of opposition to her plans for a 21,127-square-foot home.

Kogan had planned to level the 19,000-square-foot mansion she bought on Simmons Lane in 2005 for $18.5 million, and build the larger house.

Kogan is the wife of Russian multimillionaire Valery Kogan. He is chairman of the East Line Group, which manages Moscow's Domodedovo International Airport.

There was no answer to a call last week to Kogan's current mansion on Simmons Lane.
